Berlin Admits Lines Broken

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Germans, acknowledging a break-through, threw their heaviest counterattack into the Ubach breach today in an effort to seal off the hole in the Siegfried line, and U. S. First Army tanks and infantry surged forward in the fifth day of fierce battle.

Flightup on flight of Allied planes, operating up to 10,000 feet, rushed into the battle, eager to take advantage of the first good weather since the start of the drive.

In the first storming assault, the Americans were pushed from the top of a commanding height a mile east of Heibach, which they seized yesterday a mile and a half south of Ubach. But the doughboys held to the ridge and then the planes dived upon enemy armor.

Sherman tanks and infantry teams were meeting German counterattacks headon, fanning out behind their gap in the Siegfried line's main defenses, and attacking hastily thrown up earthworks and enemy defenses behind huge slag piles.

Capture of the height east of Heibach widened the breach. At Beggendorf the Americans were fighting from three to four miles inside Germany.

Another breakthrough was acknowledged by the enemy in the area north of Nancy, in the Third Army sector.

To the north, the Germans declared, more Allied paratroopers had been driven in Holland.

To the south, Patton's infantry, sprayed with shellfire from German strong points on either flank, fought for Fort Driant whose "battered in" garrison battled from underground passages and trapdoor gunposts.

The Americans, after a five-day fight, were clinging to slim positions at the northwestern and southwestern corners of the fort near Dornot, five miles southwest of Metz.

They had been forced to give up a hold at the northeastern corner. But Patton moved up 155-millimeter "Long Tom" artillery and was replying heavily to German guns.

Another battle raged into its second day near Sivry, ten miles north of Nancy.

In the north the Canadians, behind sheets of fire from flame throwers, burst across the Leopold canal into the enemy pocket south of the Schelde and won a bridgehead north of Maldegem.

The Canadians also wedged into Holland beyond Putte, near Antwerp.

Flood waters up to eight feet deep covered more than a fourth of dike-breach Walcheren.

British closed within three miles south of industrial Tilburg.

On the east side of the Noijem corridor Americans buffeted back two German counterattacks.

BALKANS—As Red troops in Yugoslavia take Melenci and close in on Belgrade, British troops attack Sarajevo in Albania and mop up in newly-invaded Patrai in Greece. The Ankara radio said the Germans were evacuating Athens.

Aleutian Planes Rip Kurile Japs

By Associated Press

Aleutian-based bombers swept to within 310 miles of Japan in their deepest strike at the Kurile Islands, a Tokyo broadcast reported today in the wake of the second devastating American blow at one of Japan's greatest gasoline production centers.

Domei news agency said 12 Liberators attacked Kira island in the Kuriles twice Thursday. It said two were shot down in a fierce air battle.

Kira is a pinpoint island 90 miles closer to Tokyo than any target previously hit on the northern road to Japan. No land-based bombers except Superfortresses have been closer to Japan. The distance from the Aleutians to the 2500 mile round trip flight made by southwest Pacific Liberators hammering at Balikpapan.

"Suicide boys" of the 13th Air Force returning Tuesday from the second mass raid on the Borneo oil center said they "bombed hell out of Balikpapan" despite a vicious Japanese defense.

Seven Liberators and at least 79 Zeros were shot down in an hour long battle between 40 unescorted bombers and as many interceptors.

Other Southwest Pacific bombers destroyed or damaged nine Jap freighters off the Philippines, Ambona and Ceram. In two days U. S. planes and submarines accounted for 33 more Jap ships, including four warships.

Adm. Nimitz reported the invasion of Palau, east of the Philippines, had cost the lives of 11,613 Japanese and 1922 Americans. U. S. casualties total 7408, including 6166 wounded and 280 missing.

Marshall in Paris Via F. D. Plane

PARIS, Oct. 6 (INS)—Gen. Marshall, chief of the U. S. Army staff, arrived in Paris by air today in a huge Douglas C-54 which made the first flight inaugurating regular passenger plane service between America and France.

Other passengers included James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director; Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Handy, chief of operations, U. S. Army; Maj. Gen. Howard A. Craig, assistant chief of the Army air staff; and Col. Frank McCarthy of the War Department.

The party traveled in a presidential plane which President Roosevelt had not even seen so far, piloted by Lt. Col. Henry T. Myers of Tifton, Ga.

5th Captures Road Junction

ROME, Oct. 6 (AP)—American Fifth Army troops hammered out gains up to three miles yesterday over rain-bogged, mountainous terrain on approaches to the Po valley, capturing the road junction to Loiano, 14 miles south of Bologna on the road from Florence.

Headquarters reported capture of Monzuno, East of Loiano, doughboys advanced to a point 3,000 yards south of Montecatini.

New Greek Port, Prisoners Taken

ROME, Oct. 6 (AP)—British invasion troops in Greece, striking along the north shore of the Peloponnese from captured Patrai, have overwhelmed the fortified port of Rion guarding the narrow entrance to the Gulf of Corinth. Allied headquarters announced today.

Enemy security battalions have surrendered at a number of other points in Greece, a communiqué said. Fifteen hundred prisoners were taken at Patrai alone.

Ingratitude

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 6 (AP)—Jesse David Snyder, 34, climbed to the top girder on the Morrison street bridge, waited for a crowd to gather, shed his coat and jumped into the Willamette river.

Rescued by a fireboat and taken to shore, he complained: "What's the matter? Isn't anybody passing out the whiskey? I thought they gave a guy a drink when he falls in the river."

Police charged him with disorderly conduct.

Reds and Tito's Troops Closing in on Belgrade

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (AP)—Russian and Yugoslav troops fought the Germans in the outskirts of Belgrade today and front dispatches indicated patrols had crossed to the south bank of the Danube from captured Pancevo, nine miles from the capital.

Dunkirk Raided As Truce Ends

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers swooped on Dunkirk at 10 a. m. today at the exact moment the truce with the stranded German garrison expired.

Indications were, however, the Canadian and British besiegers had not yet mounted a full scale ground offensive against the last of the German-held channel ports, which was the evacuation point for the battered remnants of the British expeditionary force in 1940.

The battle had been halted to allow French civilians safe exit. The German-controlled Dutch radio said fighting was "raging more fiercely than ever before."

Approximately 17,000 Germans looked in this last Nazi-held channel port were expected to fight rather than surrender, but official word was lacking.

Marshal Tito was reported near the front and it was believed troops of his army of national liberation would be the first formally to enter the fortified old city of 267,000. The range of hills at whose northwest corner Belgrade is located is ideal for Red army infiltration tactics.

(The Paris radio said Tito had arrived in Moscow to talk with Marshal Stalin.)

Pravda said other Allied Slavic troops had reached the vicinity of Nis, 130 miles southeast of Belgrade, where the Belgrade-Athens-Salonika and Belgrade-Sofia railroads meet.

In northern Yugoslavia along the Tisza river, other Russian troops were less than 30 miles across flat Hungarian frontier country from the second largest Hungarian city, Szeged, imperiled frontally from Romania as well. The conquest of Hungary was declared in Russian newspapers to be the first objective of Russian strategy.

"The Red army is clearing its way to Budapest by fire and sword," Pravda announced. "Hungary protects the Germans' southern flank and continually supplies cannon fodder. The loss of Hungary would mean loss of raw materials such as oil, metals and foodstuffs."

Szeged is 96 miles southeast of Budapest.

Thirty-five miles south of Belgrade, Yugoslav units were locked in bitter battle with the Germans for the village of Topola, home of Karageorge—"Black George"—who beat the Turks a century ago and founded the royal dynasty from which King Peter descended.

2 Confess Kidnaps, Holdups, Clear Girl

A recital of crime, including two kidnappings, a holdup and several burglaries, was given in the Boston police lineup today by two men arrested in a stolen car with the 21-year-old widow of a Canton war hero.

The loot from their crime careers amounted to more than $4000, police said, and they were still checking on several other "jobs" the pair were suspected of doing.

One of the men, a 24-year-old Roxbury youth who terrorized residents of Roxbury and Jamaica Plain in 1938 as the "cat bandit," admitted kidnaping a driver-collector for a cigarette vending machine firm in Quincy earlier this week.

"We got him onto a side road in Quincy after following him from Neponset," the man told Lt. James V. Crowley.

"We took him along in his car to Weymouth and then turned into the woods. We tied him up and told him to wait 20 minutes and then we drove to some woods in Sharon."

Police records showed that Francis R. McCann, 35, of Buckminster rd., Westwood, was the victim.

Police said the loot on that job included $1300 in cash and $1200 worth of cigarettes.

The Roxbury man admitted also kidnaping James Sullivan, a Quincy used car salesman, the same day, taking him to the Weymouth woods.

"He didn't have any money, so we drove back to where we could get a street car," the suspect said.

The suspect said he got most of the shotguns and revolvers found in their car by breaking into a house in Sharon. He said he found one revolver in a Norwood barroom.

His accomplice, a 28-year-old Roxbury man, said he took part in a safe break in Sharon railroad depot several weeks ago. He said the other suspect and three men now in state prison were with him. That job netted $104, police said.

The holdup took place in a Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, wine shop, the second man confessed. He said he waited on at least 10 customers while his accomplice guarded the owner in the back shop. He admitted taking a wallet containing $83 but denied the owner's claim that $500 was taken.

A break into a Washington st., Roxbury, tailor shop netted the pair several suits of clothing and at least six pairs of shoes, he said. A quantity of clothing was also found in the car when they were arrested, police said.

Burglar tools in the car came from a Dudley st., Roxbury, garage, he admitted.

"Where did you live all this time," asked Lt. Crowley.

"We lived in the woods, sleeping in the car and eating all over," the suspect said.

The pair were arrested by Patrolmen Carl Fetter and Rocco Amaro.

The young widow picked up with the bandit pair was still held although police said she was "more a kid who chose bad company than a gun-moll."

The men tried to clear her completely saying "She's just a good kid who had nothing to do with this stuff."

MARY M. DOUCETTE OF WALTHAM
Great Grandmother Is 101 Today

INS by Lester Mariella

War Worries Woman at 101

A Waltham woman was 101 years old today.

She is Mrs. Mary Margaret Doucette of Lake View ave., who can still read without glasses, still eat without taking bicarbonate after, and is only slightly hard of hearing.

Born in Nova Scotia, she came to the United States in 1905. She lives with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles H. Doucette. A son still lives in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Doucette, who has 13 living grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren, is worried about the war. She has one grandson, Sgt. Melvin McCauley, with the American Army in England.

"It's awful," she said, "I think constantly about the boys who have given their lives. And I can see the others over there fighting, going through cold and hunger."

Mrs. Doucette spends most of her time now, and has for years, reading her Bible. It is to the Scriptures she attributes her longevity.

"I know almost the whole Book by heart," she said, "It's a great comfort to me."

She still is pretty spry and gets around the house without difficulty.

She expects to live quite a few years longer, "God willing," and would be very happy about it except for the one thing.

"This terrible war," she said, "I wish it could be over soon."

Seek Sick Gypsy Disease Carrier

Police throughout the State were searching today for a 26-year-old Gypsy woman who left Lowell by auto after being ordered to a hospital for treatment of diphtheria.

The woman, identified on a statewide police teletype warning as Julia Elmbo, was reported to be driving toward Boston in an auto with a man, woman and 17-month-old child.

Lt. John A. Graham, who described her as a "menace to public health," said her illness was diagnosed at the Lowell City Health Department Wednesday.

Girl Marine Wins Divorce

All that her husband wanted of a wife, he told her, was "someone to take care of my dogs and keep the house clean," Doris L. Kinraide, a member of the Women's Marine Corps now stationed at San Diego, testified today in Dedham probate court.

Judge James F. Reynolds granted her an uncontested divorce from Robert B. Kinraide, a research engineer of Bradley st., Westwood, after she testified she left him for good after he threatened to kill her, himself and his dogs in 1942.

She said they were married in Newton in 1934 and that he treated her like a child, refusing to give her any responsibility and even insisting on buying all her clothing for her.

GOP Spreading Fear Propaganda, FD Says

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt, saying his Republican opponents are spreading "fear propaganda" in stating his Administration is plotting to give the Communists control of the government, disowned communistic support for his fourth term bid in a radio address last night.

Employing such spiked phrases as "rabble rousers," "political propagandists" and "bigots," Mr. Roosevelt declared:

"I have never sought, and I do not welcome the support of any person or group committed to Communism, or Fascism, or any other foreign ideology which would undermine the American system of government or the American system of free competitive enterprise and private property."

The Democratic candidate emphasized that this does not in the least interfere with America's friendly relations with the Soviet Union, adding: "The kind of economy that suits the Russian people is their own affair."

He devoted a large part of his second campaign speech designed primarily as "get out the vote" appeal to references to Communism in opposition speeches. He did not use the word "Communism," but said it was a "source of regret to all decent Americans that some political propagandists are dragging red herrings across the trail of this national election."

"For example," he asserted, "labor baiters and buccos and some politicians use the term 'Communism' loosely, and apply it to every progressive social measure and to the views of every foreign-born citizen with whom they disagree."

"They forget that we in the United States are all descended from immigrants (all except the Indians); and there is no better proof of that fact than the heroic names on our casualty lists."

The President referred to a statement by Chairman Anderson of the New Mexico of the House committee on campaign expenditures, that 13 Republicans in Congress had recently sent free through the mails more than 3,000,000 copies of a collection of speech requiring more than 18 tons of scarce and expensive paper, and at the taxpayers' expense.

This document, Roosevelt added, "says that the 'red spectre of Communism is stalking our country from east to west, from north to south'—the charge being that he Roosevelt Administration is part of a gigantic plot to sell out democracy out to the Communists."

Continuing, the President said: "This form of fear propaganda is not new among rabble rousers and fomenters of class hatred—who seek to destroy democracy itself. It was used by Mussolini's black shirts and by Hitler's brown shirts. It has been used before in this country by the silver shiners and others on the lunatic fringe."

"But the sound and democratic instincts of the American people rebel against its use, particularly by their own Congressmen and at the taxpayers' expense."

Dewey Prays Tonight At Al Smith's Bier

By LEO W. O'BRIEN

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6 (INS)—Gov. Dewey leaves Albany today for a Saturday night speech at Charleston, W. Va., in which he may challenge the three major points raised by President Roosevelt in his radio talk last night.

The Republican presidential nominee worked on his Charleston speech at the executive mansion while the President spoke, and observers expect he will weave into his West Virginia talk some reference to Mr. Roosevelt's discussion of state soldier vote laws, Communist campaign activities and discharge of members of the armed forces after the war.

Gov. Dewey may take issue with the President's flat denial of any Administration plan to keep men in the Army when peace comes, his attack upon alleged attempts in some states to make it difficult for servicemen to vote, and his blast at Republican charges that Communists are actively supporting the Roosevelt-Trotter ticket.

En route to Charleston, the Republican nominee will stop in New York City tonight to utter a prayer at the bier of Alfred E. Smith, four-time Governor of New York State and 1928 Democratic presidential candidate, who died Wednesday morning. He is paying his final tribute to the late Governor tonight because his West Virginia engagement will prevent his attendance at the Smith funeral tomorrow.

Gov. Dewey was to leave Albany late this afternoon. He is due in New York City about 7 p. m. Upon

Abp. Cushing At Regis Fete

Archbishop-elect Richard J. Cushing journeyed to Weston today for a class opening ceremony at Regis College following an announcement that he would formally take possession of his archiepiscopal throne in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Nov. 8.

The Most Rev. Apostolic Delegate to the United States, His Excellency Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, will preside in the name of the Holy Father that day at pontifical rites.

The ceremony will begin with a solemn procession of priests and dignitaries, after which the archbishop will proceed to the center of the Sanctuary while the clergy intone the liturgical prayer for the new Ordinary. The new prelate then will ascend to the altar and chant the prayer to the Holy Cross, later imparting his archiepiscopal blessing for the first time.

After the blessing, the Apostolic delegate will lead the archbishop to his throne and solemnly install him in it. Archbishop Cushing then will celebrate pontifical mass.

Strikers Back At Fore River

After a two-day strike over ratings and bonus adjustments, the more than 1500 welders at the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co. were back on their jobs today as the result of a compromise reached at a conference of union delegates and management officials.

Sound trucks were at the shipyard gates this morning as union spokesmen explained details of the agreement to returning workers. The yard public relations office announced the company had agreed to re-rate the welders pending approval by the War Labor Board.

Bricker Blasts Labor Record Of New Deal as Unfair, Biased

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Oct. 6 (INS)—Gov. Bricker blasted the New Deal's labor record and demanded "that the whole field of labor relations must be resurveyed in the interest of orderly business, justice and humanity."

The Ohio governor addressed an overflow crowd in the Augustana College gymnasium after speaking at a Republican rally in nearby Davenport as he wound up his whirlwind tour of Iowa.

Gov. Bricker opened his Rock Island address by citing the findings of a congressional committee's investigation into the administration of the National Labor Relations Act by the NLRB in July, 1939.

"The congressional committee," Bricker said, "found that the New Deal was unfair and biased in its conduct, its decisions and its interpretation of the law."

The Ohio governor then turned his guns on Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, and Earl Browder, the Communist.

"The sale of the Democratic party to the Hillmans and the Browders and the radical element in this country was not conceived at its 1944 convention in Chicago," Gov. Bricker declared.

"The deal was in the making within a few months after the President took office in 1933, and has been in process of consummation for 12 long years."

"If we really want to lose our cherished rights as citizens of a free republic, the quickest and the surest way to do it is to give the New Deal four more years, to finish the job it has so well started."

"Common sense demands that the whole field of labor relations must be resurveyed in the interest of orderly business, justice, and humanity. That will be done when Gov. Dewey becomes President."

7th Brother Joins Navy

In his 18th birthday today, George H. Kenneally, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Kenneally, of Elm st., Charlestown, became the seventh man in the family to join the Navy.

Frank and Robert have been in the Navy more than 10 years.

Declared Wife Of Dunninger

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (INS)—Mrs. Chrystal Spencer Dunninger was declared by Supreme Court Justice Dennis O'Leary Cohan to be the common law wife of Joseph Dunninger, the mentalist.

The jurist held she had established proof that the relationship has existed since April 28, 1928, and that the status was confirmed in an agreement dated April 28, 1940, signed by Dunninger.

Granting Mrs. Dunninger's request for separation, the matter of alimony and fee for her attorney, Bernard Sandler, who filed the suit last February, was referred to a referee.

Revere Club's Fate In Hands of ABC

The fate of the license of the Esquire Club on Squire rd., Revere, today was in the hands of the Alcoholic Beverages Central Commission following questioning of the owner, Michael DeMarco.

DeMarco was called on the carpet because the ABC commissioners and their investigators recently called for a routine inspection of the club and were unable to get in either the back or front door. The owner explained he got excited and didn't know who his callers might be.

Butter in Hotels Breakfast Only

Butterless lunches and dinners will be served in all Boston hotels starting tomorrow, Charles A. Coyle, secretary of the City of Boston Hotel Ass'n, announced today.

Hotels will not serve butter after 11 a. m. "for any purpose whatsoever," Coyle said. He said the order applied to banquets, private dinners, or any other eating after 11 a. m.

Jams, jellies, marmalade or cottage cheese will be offered as substitutes. Under the sweeping edict, even hot buttered rum, a favorite cold weather drink, will be served without butter, he said.

The butter deadline will be extended to noon on Sundays only, Coyle said, to permit hotel patrons an extra hour before ordering breakfast.

Restaurant owners were awaiting results of a conference in Chicago next week before taking any organized action in the butter crisis, John W. Stokes, president of Massachusetts Restaurant Ass'n, said.

Many eating places, however, have begun independent rationing programs. No butter—or smaller patties—has become common in several Greater Boston restaurants.

Stokes said his organization expected to learn in Chicago if the current shortage was temporary or would last several months.

"If it's just temporary, we'll worry along somehow," he said. "But if the shortage is going to last any time, we'll get together and make adjustments."

The only bright spot in the butter situation was the hope for "some relief" during October expressed by the War Food Administration in Washington.

Hopes can blush. This was proven beyond a doubt yesterday when Sgt. Joseph J. "Joe" Lumino, 27, of 143 Oakland st., Malden, arrived back to the arms of his wife after 16 months overseas. He was in the thick of action from Sicily to Rome.

The crack machine gunner, who stood off counter-attack after counter-attack of crack Nazi storm troops, really ruffled up when asked if he would pose with his happy wife.

Mrs. Marion Dantes Lumino, 23, was so pleased to have him home and proud of his record, although modest herself, that she finally consented to having her husband and herself pose for the camera.

LORNA L. SLOCOMBE AT HER CAMBRIDGE HOME
Girl in Tea Room Row Serves Herself ... Now

Dish Breaker Wins Home Front Praise

Messages of congratulation and offers of every sort of aid poured in today on Miss Lorna L. Slocombe of 2 Holyoke st., Cambridge, the 29-year-old typist who spoke up for thousands of home-fronters weary of being tossed around to the tune of "Don't you know there's a war going on?"

Her indignation carried her right into East Cambridge District Court, where she pleaded not guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of personal property, but there were many who admired her for speaking her piece.

The charge was preferred by Oscar Killgren, manager of the swank Eske tea room in Brattle sq., Cambridge, where a few dishes were scattered to bits on the floor when a waitress refused to make a menu substitution and reminded Miss Slocombe that there "was a war on."

Since her arraignment in court, a well-wisher has paid $2 for the broken china and it appeared the Eske tea room is more than ready to let the matter drop.

Judge Louis Green continued the case until Oct. 16 and, according to all parties concerned, Miss Slocombe will find matters routine when she goes to court that day. It was indicated no one wants to prosecute further.

Miss Slocombe explained to friends that she did not break the dishes intentionally, but that they crashed to the floor when she heard the old question of "Don't you know there's a war going on?"

After all, the young lady has given seven pints of blood, had a cousin killed on Guadalcanal and her fiance has been in the South Pacific nearly three years.

Slacks Ban Stirs Girls at B. U.

Boston University co-eds, who long have known the freedom and comfort of slacks, today were up in arms over the university's new edict, "no slacks for women."

Slacks can only be worn now in the dormitories before 11 a. m. Then the girls must dress up and be their feminine best.

Few were willing to face faculty wrath by talking for publication, but many were outspoken off the record.

"What are we, just a lot of kindergarten kids?" one senior said. "It all snacks a bit of dictatorship."

HARVARD VETERANS' AIDE

Dr. Payson S. Wild, associate dean of the graduate school of arts and sciences, today was named to head the new Harvard University office to handle special problems of war veterans returning to college.

WOMAN STILL DENIES FARM BOY MURDER

SALINAS, Cal., Oct. 6 (Shapely Mrs. Frances Andrews returned to the stand under relentless cross-examination today in fighting the charge she murdered Jay Lovett, 19-year-old farm boy, in a fit of jealous rage.

The attractive 38-year-old society leader denied she ever had "improper, immoral or illicit relations" with the handsome youngster whose body was found, a pistol beside it, on a road near the Andrews' ranch gate.

Briefly, this is the story of the accused social leader, who all her life had lived a life of luxury:

1—She and her husband, Frank, first met Jay Lovett in 1939 when he was going to school with Billy Conlon, a cousin of Mrs. Andrews, who lived at her Carmel Valley ranch.

2—They encouraged him to come to the Andrews ranch because he was a better influence on Billy, then 13, than some of his other playmates. They grew fond of Jay. The boys liked each other.

3—Jay stayed at the Andrews ranch for six months when he became sick in the winter of 1941.

4—Mrs. Andrews and her husband treated him like a son, paid his medical and dental bills, bought clothes for him and took him to San Francisco for a weekend in honor of his birthday.

5—On the night of his mysterious death Jay had come over to Mrs. Andrews' ranch from the ranch of pretty Mrs. Nancy Linde to assist Mrs. Andrews in treating a sick calf. Then he left for home and wanted to walk instead of ride, and that was the last moment Mrs. Andrews saw him alive.

Probe of Red Teaching Starts

The Boston School Committee today began an investigation of charges of Miss Florence Birmingham, president of the Massachusetts Woman's Political Club, that classes in Communism were being conducted at the adult evening center in the Jeremiah E. Burke School, Dorchester.

Dr. Patrick J. Foley, committee chairman, ordered findings in the probe reported back immediately to members.

Miss Birmingham asserted Communists were "invading Boston, attempting to direct the votes of its economy."

At the suggestion of the Retail Trade Board, the school committee voted to release high school students on Friday, Dec. 4, so they can work during the Christmas holidays in stores.

Students thus released must be in good standing and must obtain permission of their parents in writing.

Hub Hero Pro-Burial Mass Next Tuesday

A pro-burial mass for PFC Matthew P. Scanlan, Jr., of Ashmont st., Dorchester, who was killed in action in France Aug. 5, will be celebrated at 9 a. m. Tuesday at St. Anne's Church, Neponset.

PFC Scanlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew P. Scanlan, was graduated from English High School and entered the service in March, 1942. He took part in the invasion of France on D-Day.

Mature's Visit Cheers Cinderella

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Eunice Kinzer, Coast Guard "Cinderella," rested well today at the hospital where yesterday she saw her hero, Victor Mature, who brought her roses and cookies.

Attendants described the girl's condition as still serious following an operation Wednesday for removal of a brain tumor.

A nurse said Eunice appeared to "settle down somewhat" and is getting a good deal of sleep since the visit of the ex-movie star, who left his Coast Guard show at Indianapolis to come here for a few minutes with the child. The two first met in August at Atlantic City, where Eunice, then in a wheel chair, saw Mature and his cast perform in "Tars and Spars."

Kimono Clue In Mother Hunt

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 6—A store label on a blue and white flannel kimono was the main hope of detectives today in seeking identity of the mother of a two-weeks-old baby boy found abandoned in a downtown office building.

The infant, without even a blanket around him, was found lying in a second-floor corridor by Emanuel Hirsch of South Blvd., West Springfield, the janitor. Police took the baby to Dr. S. G. Brody for examination and then to City Hospital.

The healthy 8-pound boy was reported thriving on a milk and dextrose formula prescribed by hospital physicians, and showed no effects of abandonment.

GI Shoes Saved Downed Flier

By ALICE BISSELL

The Army Air Corps navigator looked more like the baby's big brother than father.

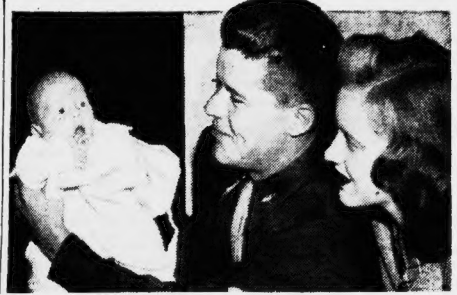

Home from war, the 25-year-old veteran found his wife, Eleanor, 18, with their one-month-old son, Johnny.

The soldier kept looking into the baby's unknowing eyes. He hugged him as though he'd found the world in his arms, and after a while he shook his head from side to side and sighed.

"Oh brother . . . you're one fellow who's going to grow up and play baseball. Yes, sir."

Lt. John Thibodeau, 25, of Madison ave., North Cambridge, had plenty of fresh memories to make his first wish for his son a boyhood of playing baseball.

He tried to tell his wife a little about war. It was as though he'd been away on a little trip and felt

LT. AND MRS. JOHN THIBODEAU AND SON, JOHNNY

Ploesti Raider Home After Escape; Meets Baby for First Time

called upon to give her some of his experiences.

"My shoes. My GI shoes. They saved my life. Imagine walking 450 miles for 97 days and having shoes that don't wear out," he said. "It was funny. We wanted to get back to Italy just to get to a hospital and get deloused. The mental picture of being deloused in a clean American hospital gave us strength to go on.

"The Mudcat," he reminisced. "My pilot named the bomber Mudcat because over there, thinking of home on the Mississippi, he remember a story his dad told him long ago when they were fishing together for mudcat.

"His dad said that where a mudcat swims, no other fish can survive. Isn't that a nice reason to name your B-24 Mudcat?"

Most of all he remembered the missing-in-action days in Yugoslavia. Eleanor wanted to know about those days, tragic for her, when she had received the War Department telegram last May.

"Our 30th mission. We'd bombed our target over the Ploesti oil fields. Knocked down two German 109's. Lost two engines. Threw out two guns. We were alone, and ran into unexpected flak over Jugoslavia," he said.

"The ten of us bailed out.

"I thought the man running toward me was a German. I was scared. When he said 'comrade' I went nuts.

"But he took my chute off for me. These underground were Chetniks, Gen. Mihailovic's Serbian peasants. They loved Americans so much they cried when we left them. They guided us from farm to farm and through the mountains. They slept on the floor and gave us their beds.

"One day the underground hid us from pursuing Germans in a peasant home. The only American word the man and woman knew was 'comrade.' They were in love.

"The 10 of us felt this true love there in a hut in Europe. We talked of it as we staggered to Italy. Our feet were bleeding. We were sick. But it was wonderful. It was the only true love we'd seen during the whole war."

Lt. Thibodeau stopped talking and looked at his baby boy. "Home, Eleanor. Baseball. Bases loaded. I hope they all get home."

A CITYFUL OF PEOPLE On the average busy Saturday about 75,000 people walk through this different kind of a basement store—and that's a lot of people no matter how you look at them. Some come to look—but the majority come to buy and save, judging from our record of selling about twelve million bargains annually. Yes, every day is bargain day with hundreds of bargain lots, and isn't a unique store that attracts a cityful of people in a day (nearly as much as the entire population of the city of Manchester, N. H.) worth perhaps an occasional visit from you?

1944 Nazi Defeat Fades, Says Davis

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Failure of Allied airborne troops at Arnhem, in the opinion of OWI Director Elmer Davis, makes more remote the chances of victory in Europe this year.

Davis said the "Arnhem Affair" had made out of date an Office of War Information report which had predicted Germany would go down before, or not long after, the end of 1944.

He referred to the heroic 11-day struggle to hold a bridgehead across the Rhine at Arnhem, Holland, against superior forces.

"Everybody agrees," Davis told reporters, "that the defeat of the heroic airborne division makes German collapse more remote than when our report was put together."

The report, not intended for publication, leaked out after 8000 copies were prepared and some 4000 distributed to persons in the advertising business.

Experts said 5,000,000 workers would change jobs after V-Day in Europe, and that German collapse would bring widespread and in some quarters serious dislocations in civilian life were made in the OWI report. Intended to guide advertisers in planning future campaigns in behalf of the war effort.

On rationing the survey gave these as probable trends following V-E day:

Butter and sugar—probably will remain rationed.

Cheese, fats, milk and cream, better grade meats short supplies for first six months, with rationing uncertain, but plentiful thereafter.

Processed foods, fresh fruits and vegetables adequate supplies without rationing.

Shoes rationing will continue; other clothing will be short of civilian need.

Gasoline—very gradual easing over several-month period.

Fuel oil rationing next winter as well as this.

Passenger car tires rationing terminated within 3 months.

8000 New Voters Registered in Hub

With 8000 persons added to the Boston voting list already, registration offices opened today in all 22 wards of the city as Democratic and Republican leaders continued their enrollment drive.

More than 300,000 Boston residents are qualified to vote in the November election, including about 16,000 servicemen who have registered by mail. Enrollment of voters will end Oct. 18.

"WHERE U BOT THE HAT"

Probe Reveals Reds Line PAC

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—Evidence presented before the House un-American activities committee shows the Political Action Committee, spearheading the Roosevelt fourth-term campaign, is "a hotbed of Communism," Rep. John M. Costello (D.) of California, chairman, declared today.

"More than 80 per cent of the Political Action Committee has been revealed to have a Communist background," said Costello. "The facts show that labor is being dominated by Communist groups not representing labor."

"When the Communist movement attempts to take control of the government under the guise of a labor political organization, it is a service to the American people to unmask its methods."

Costello's declaration was in reply to the charge that the committee was conducting a sniping campaign against the New Deal, delivered by Rep. Herman P. Fieberharter (D.) of Pennsylvania, frequent defender of the Political Action Committee on the floor of the House.

Concluding the committee's probe into subversive aspects of the Political Action Committee, J. B. Matthews, research director, submitted a "box score" compiled from government agencies which showed that 119 of the 141 members of the CIO National Citizens' Political Action Committee have been affiliated with 245 Communist organizations or Red front groups.

A previous chart put into evidence showed 82 members of the Political Action Committee had been affiliated with 25 Communist front groups labeled as subversive

Priest Says Stalin Empire Bent

By STANLEY PIEZA

Special to the Boston Evening America

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Instead of working in co-operation with the Allies for world peace, Marshal Josef Stalin is busy contemplating a Soviet empire, Rev. Edward V. Dailey, editor, charged in a front-page editorial in the New World, official Catholic publication of Chicago.

Fr. Dailey, noted writer and student of international affairs, declared:

"We have said that peace will be harder to handle than war. Nothing becomes more apparent as our Army splits through the Siegfried line towards the heart of the Reich.

"Plans on what to do with Germany when the Nazi armies collapse are as confusing and indeterminate as the mind of Mr. Stalin. He is busy contemplating a Soviet Empire pronging to the north, the west and the south, with the prospect of its soon becoming the colossus of Asia and Europe."

Pointing out the lack of Stalin's unanimity as an ally, the Catholic writer continued:

"His independent policy towards conquered countries is a startling index of his suspicions towards his Allies. His ambition for occupied Germany would give him the Junkers, and sufficient manpower for the rehabilitation of Russian cities, leaving red-hot coals of unrest in other territories for the British-American bloc to shuttle between themselves.

"The great Premies of the Russians has been able to throw his weight any which way without consultation with the Allies. His occupation of Poland, with the repudiation of its government-in-exile, was effected without formal protest. There is little wonder that he fearlessly forges ahead on his program of communization.

"He believes in it, and he seems to be succeeding in establishing its concepts wherever his armies penetrate. There is no reason to think that his formula for a defeated Germany will fall into any other pattern."

Oklahoma Santa Claus Has Soft Spot for War Orphans

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6 (AP)—Oklahoma's Santa Claus commission, created by a benevolent State Legislature to make sure Christmas comes to orphans, too, has a special spot in its heart for kids whose families have been broken by war.

"It's only natural," said Mrs. Warren Fountain in the commission's toy-stocked headquarters, "that we make every effort to see such children get what they ask for in their letters."

Mrs. Fountain, secretary of the agency organized in 1937, held one of the hundreds of letters received by a three-man commission which plays Santa Claus.

"My daddy's in the air service," the boy wrote, "and I so want an airplane for Christmas." "He'll get it," promised Mrs. Fountain.

The Santa Claus's have only $1500 annually to spend from legislative appropriations, but private donations usually boost the sum to more than $3000.

Last year the money went for gifts of clothing, toys, candy—to the 3354 children living in orphanages in Oklahoma—and it makes no difference whether the institution is supported by the state, private funds or a religious organization, or whether it's for Caucasians, Indians or Negroes.

The children just write their letters, and if it's at all possible, back comes the gift.

Most popular gift for girls? Perfume, says Mrs. Fountain.

"They have so little beauty in their lives," she added, "they appreciate a beautiful smell."

Yanks at Front Flay Union 'Statler Battle'

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME, Oct. 6 (INS)—American combat soldiers in Italy, commenting today on the fracas between two naval officers and teamsters in a Washington hotel after President Roosevelt's first major campaign speech were unanimous in condemning the affair.

Opinion of Yank frontline fighters in Italy was that Lt. Randolph Dickens, Jr., and Lt. Com. James H. Suddeth were completely justified in refusing to reveal their political convictions after the President addressed the AFL Teamsters' Union.

After reading of the affair in the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes, Cpl. Thomas Latham of Ridgeway, Pa., said:

"They were a nosey bunch to want to know Dickens' politics. Why should they pick on a man in uniform? I wouldn't have told them."

Lt. Charles Ellis, colored infantryman of the 92nd Division, commented:

"I've been in the line for 40 days. I just came out. Stories of this nature shock up soldiers. We are for no particular party, Democratic or Republican, and we don't want any dictatorship. We want both parties to exist."

Other comment: Pvt. Allan Spers of Milwaukee:

"That is no way to treat service men. Is that the way we are all going to be treated when we get home?"

Cpl. S. A. Yealverton, 12th AAF, Columbus, Ga.:

"Lt. Dickens did exactly right. It was none of the teamsters' business."

Sgt. Herbert Mittag, Brooklyn: "If the story is true—and I think it should be investigated before any conclusions are drawn—naturally the assaulters should be held responsible. It is only an isolated case, and if true, no implications should be drawn from it. I am sure no candidate wants the support of irresponsible persons."

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q I am writing in behalf of a mother whose son was recently killed in action. She is now working and wishes to know if it will be necessary for her to cease employment in order to collect his insurance? A. T. Canabage.

A No. Collection of insurance by a beneficiary has no bearing on their financial status similar to collection of any other kind of insurance policy.

Q I was in the Navy and received a "Special Order Discharge." Is it possible for me to get back into the Navy and how do I go about re-enlistment? T. A. F., Boston.

A It depends on reason for issuance of "Special Order." Suggest you contact local draft board first. It is necessary to clear through them before you can seek enlistment.

Q I am a veteran of World War II, honorably discharged after serving three and one-half years. I am to receive a pension of $100 monthly for a period of six months and then re-examined to determine exact percentage of disability. Would like to know if I am eligible for benefits under "G. I." Bill even though I receive pension? J. E. B., Worcester.

A Certain provisions of the bill will be afforded you even though receiving pension. Unemployment compensation would not be available. Loans, hospitalization, education, etc., are available.

Q If a serviceman marries after entering the service and changes the beneficiary on his insurance policy from mother to wife, are either his mother or his wife notified of the change? R. S. B., Boston.

A The Government has not been informing thousands of beneficiaries. Thus far only one certificate of insurance has been issued the initial beneficiary. It is planned by Vets' Administration, later to notify all beneficiaries of National Service Insurance policies.

Q Last June Veterans' Friend informed me that I was entitled to mustering-out pay in the amount of $200. About the middle of July I forwarded my application and discharge papers to Bureau of Supply and Accounts, Cleveland, Ohio. I have not heard from them since, should I write again? R. A., Somerville.

A You should have had some reply by this time. Perhaps there is a delay in locating your naval papers which takes a little time in order to check discharge. However, suggest that you write again giving information as to when filed, etc., also your service number and other details.

Q I was discharged under Sec. X, convenience of gov't, "Limited Service." Am I entitled to apply for mustering-out pay? G. G., West Roxbury.

A Yes, apply U. S. Army Finance Office, 30 Federal St., Boston, and file application. Also bring your discharge.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, will be answered in this daily column.

No Divorce, Says Nancy DeMarigny

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (INS) Nancy Oakes De Marigny, one of the central figures in the sensational, Sir Harry Oakes, murder case in the Bahamas, was in New York today, denying reports she planned to divorce her 26-year-old husband, acquitted of the slaying.

"I only want to have the whole thing forgotten," said the heiress to a $200,000,000 fortune. The Countess De Marigny and her husband have been living in Cuba, with her father and her father tied up in court litigation. They have been "very content" there, since their exile from the Bahamas, she said.

Market Proves V-Garden Value

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Market Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director, Boston Second American-Soviet Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.

Successful Victory gardeners can get a true appraisal of the worth of their efforts these days by pricing vegetables on the retail markets. Because of frosts, the supply of native products is becoming scarce and prices are beginning to rise. But gardens that have been well kept up should still be paying good dividends.

With the supply of vegetables decreasing there is always the problem of adjusting the diet. This is especially true this year with butter supplies low. Use as many of the yellow and green vegetables as possible to maintain a healthy diet. Carrots and squash are excellent sources of vitamin A.

In checking over the work for the week in our garden, I find there is still quite a lot to do. Our cleaning up program is still going on with the idea of controlling pests next year. All refuse that is healthy is going into the compost pile. The piles should be rebuilt as material accumulates.

It is now time to get squash and pumpkins into their permanent storage place. If they have been cut from the vine for several weeks, the shell should be hard and dry. Sort over specimens and put only the good ripe undamaged ones in storage. Hold the others out and use first.

Late cabbage can still be left in the field. We can still expect some warm weather, which will cause cabbage to spoil if put into storage.

If you are planning to break up new land for next year, it is well to plow or dig it up this fall. This year some gardeners have experienced some grub worm and wire worm damage. Fall plowing will help to check this. Freezing and thawing of the sod also tends to improve it physically.

If you think that the soil is acid and needs lime, now is a good time to get a few samples and have it tested. Do not apply lime more than once to any garden soil unless you are sure it needs it.

Chivalry

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Maurice Molarsky, noted Philadelphia artist, says his painting of a nude was hung in too prominent a place in a current art exhibit.

The model married after she posed, Molarsky says, and a friend recognized the painting and told the husband who called on Molarsky. The exhibit was removed.

"I took it out because I didn't want to break up any families," the artist said. "Everything would have been fine if the hanging committee hadn't placed the picture where it could be seen so easily from the street."

Price ceilings for eggs, fixed by the OPA in Washington for the last two months of the year and for all of 1945, were announced today by the Regional OPA office and show generally higher retail prices for the fall and lower prices for the spring.

The highest Boston price for one dozen grade A eggs has been set for November at 69 cents, while next March the price per dozen will drop down to 49 cents. By next July the price will have increased to 55 cents a dozen and in September, 1915, eggs will sell at 67 cents.

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Artists who for racial or political reasons were forbidden by the Germans to show their works during the past four years enjoyed the limelight today at the opening of the famous autumn salon—the first big art event since the liberation of Paris.

Featured were 74 pictures and five sculptures by Pablo Picasso, famous Spanish-born master of the modern French school, who today joined the Communist party. The show includes examples of surrealist art, which the Nazis branded as "degenerate."

Girl Sending Gifts To Eight Buddies

A new and prized member of the Christmas Gifts to Buddies Overseas campaign was added to the roster today in the person of Marianne McCarthy of North ave., Rockland, who wrote:

"Up to this point I have sent six boxes overseas to boys in the service, but I do feel I can send at least two more to soldiers who may not be remembered this Christmas. I would be greatly obliged if you would send me the names of two soldiers.

The deadline for mailing these packages is fast approaching. Readers who want to join the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser in this Christmas remembrance campaign must act at once. Oct. 13 is the final mailing date for Christmas overseas packages at the Boston central postoffice. That day, a Sunday, the postoffice will be open until midnight.

But there are thousands of small local postoffices throughout New England which will be closed on Sunday, Oct. 13, and the deadline mailing date for overseas packages in these postoffices is Oct. 14.

Remember—Oct. 14 is the last day, by many New England communities, for the mailing of overseas Christmas packages.

Don't put off your mailing until the last day or hour. Be on the safe side. Prepare and pack your overseas gifts NOW and mail them NOW.

Keep that date in mind—Saturday, Oct. 14, which is the deadline date in most communities. To be on the safe side, find out NOW from your local postoffice if the postoffice will be open on Sunday, Oct. 13. But don't wait that long for mailing an overseas Christmas gift package to some lonely soldier or sailor or member of the Merchant Marine who, except for your generosity, may be forgotten on Christmas Day.

To enroll in the Christmas Gifts to Buddies Overseas campaign, fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this article. And start right now to select your gifts, pack and mail them.

The soldiers and sailors, the Marines and consanguineans and the merchant mariners know what gifts they most appreciate. These include small, light gifts such as sewing, toilet and shaving kits, combination game sets, fountain pens and mechanical pencils, wrist watches, playing cards, metal shaving mirrors, pocket knives, and non-perishable foods such as tin-packed fruit cake, vacuum-packed salted nut cake, and small tins of such luxury items as anchovies, caviar, stuffed olives or sardines.

Enroll now, choose your gifts now, and pack and mail NOW.

Real Patriot

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Called from retirement to help in the war emergency, a 74-year-old mariner has just completed his first voyage as chief engineer of a Liberty ship.

He is William Mallett of Malden, Mass. Veteran of sea duty in the other World War, he shipped recently on the S.S. John Davenport which has returned to the United States after delivering a war cargo to the British Isles.

Mallett returned to duty after eight years in retirement, the War Shipping Administration said today.

TIMELY CLOTHES WITH BALANCED TAILORING

What is balanced tailoring? It's a method of clothes making developed by Timely Clothes of Rochester. It's a scientific blending of supple hand tailoring and sturdy machine stitching. In Timely Balanced Tailoring you get all of the benefits of hand sewing where hand sewing is necessary with no extravagant waste of it for luxury's sake. In balanced tailoring you get resistance to wear and sturdiness that only machine stitches can give you.

If you want clothes that will stand up to every day wear and still look like soft luxury type clothing at a moderate price wear Timely's. The man who knows wears Timely Clothes.

Russia Warns On Kiel Canal

MOSCOW, Oct. (AP) — The Soviet naval organ Red Fleet emphasized today Russia's deep interest in the postwar status of the Kiel canal, which cuts through German territory south of the Danish border to link the Baltic with the North seas.

Declaring the "question of security of the Baltic sea" was involved, the paper said:

"Twice during the last 30 years German imperialism has locked the Baltic sea. This cannot be tolerated any longer."

Red Fleet added that "no other Baltic power prevented, and some did not want to prevent, German imperialism from acting as pirates."

$30,000,000 Ready For N. E. Projects

Approximately $30,000,000—21 per cent of the public works projects planned for the postwar period by 48 New England municipalities of more than 10,000 population—is ready for bid advertising, according to a report released today by the New England Council's Community Development Committee.

However, it was estimated that employment through these projects will be less than one per cent of the population of the communities. The total employment is expected to be 28,000.

Nazis Count on Winter for Help

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP) — Declaring the western front is becoming an area of "fog, rains, cold and mud," the German news agency, Transocean, indicated today the Nazis are counting on the weather to stem the Allied drive.

The broadcast asserted it was "easier for the German soldier to deal with cold and wetness than it was for the enemy."

Troops on both sides, it said, hardly know what it is like to wear dry clothes.

A GENUINE AMERICAN

ALFRED E. SMITH's place in history will be in that pantheon of American statesmen who possessed high qualifications for the Presidency but were unable to achieve the honors of that great office. As Governor of New York, Mr. Smith had a long and distinguished career—he was one of only two men who served four terms at Albany.

He contributed greatly to the welfare of New York. His most notable accomplishment in the governorship was the reorganization of the state government.

Under an old constitution, a bewildering congeries of overlapping departments and bureaus had grown up during the generations.

Mr. Smith put through a program reducing the number of departments to a few, which a competent governor could properly supervise. And undoubtedly in the years since then many millions of dollars saved for taxpayers has been the direct result.

In 1928, as the outstanding man of his party, Mr. Smith received the Democratic nomination for the Presidency.

Because he was a devout and eminent Roman Catholic, he was made the victim of religious bigotry, and the courage with which he met the foul issue in the campaign did much to prevent a similar occurrence from ever again disgracing American politics.

In 1932, when any Democratic nominee was sure to be elected, Franklin D. Roosevelt, whom Mr. Smith had made Governor of New York, contrived to take the nomination for himself and ushered in the New Deal.

In the first "hundred days" of the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Smith was its generous supporter.

But when he perceived where Tugwellism, squandering, and preachment and practices of class rancor were taking the nation, he became an opponent of Rooseveltism, rather than of Roosevelt.

"Al" Smith, as he was affectionately called, was always a patriot and there has been no more sincere supporter of the Constitution and of "government by laws" than he.

"DON'T STARE!"

A WASHINGTON writer says veterans in the great Walter Reed General Hospital, who are fighting for a return to normal civilian life after losing an arm or a leg in combat overseas, have two simple "don'ts" for people who meet them in the street.

"DON'T STARE" and "DON'T ASK QUESTIONS."

Disabled soldiers who have spent months learning how to use artificial limbs dread their first contact with the public because of the attention and cross-examination they expect.

When the inevitable meeting occurs, the soldiers are understandably relieved when they find themselves treated as normal persons and their rehabilitation is practically accomplished.

But if relatives and friends persist in asking impertinent questions and prying into situations which veterans would like to forget, the incapacitated men are strongly tempted to return to their hospitals.

Let us who have escaped the horrors and privations of actual warfare also train and adapt ourselves.

Let us do it by resolving always to STOP, THINK and NOT TO SEEK INFORMATION THAT IS NONE OF OUR BUSINESS.

"A WOMAN dare all things when she loves or hates," said St. Jerome. Asked Southey: "What will not woman, gentle woman, dare when strong affection stirs her spirit up?" Our Butter Campaign No. 376 is not progressing as much as we had hoped. This campaign has as its object the persuasion of manufacturers to put tops on bottles and jars that are easy to get off. Last night I noted my girl friend struggling with a cold cream jar top. Her system is to slam the jar on the floor. This works all right but does not promote friendship with the people downstairs. I have a cold and have been trying to get the top off some super duper cough medicine. My efforts have been in vain. I have sent out for a hammer and chisel. I am anxious to get a crack at this medicine as the label says it contains: "White pine, wild cherry, alcohol, sanguinaria, chloroform, bala gilead buds, sassafras, spikehead and pine tar." If that combination can't cure a cold, what will?

CAUGHT IN ACT: Having a cold, I am working at home. My girl friend just came in and caught me smoking a cigar. She reprimanded me sharply and then said: "You know what? Since you will smoke a cigar when you have a cold I am not going to be sorry for you." That made me feel badly as I love to have people feel sorry for me. Oh, well, I enjoyed the cigar. First I've smoked in two days.

PLEASE NOTE: "Those who manufacture women's stockings are men, the dopes. Don't they realize how many long-legged women there are in this country? Why don't you hate your Hornes & Women Department get after the hosiery manufacturers and give us long-limbed ladies a break?" Such was the communication received by this department a few months ago from a young woman of Manhattan. We did what we could. Maybe we did all right. I note that one New York place is now specializing in hosiery for the statuette females of the Lois de Fee type. Stockings sold by this organization are 34 inches long.

REMARKABLE CASE: Have been reading again about Claude Wood of Tacoma, Wash., who lost his sight in a factory accident. It is claimed that a woman named Wood had her eyes to be used as a medical experiment. They were so used and it is said Wood now has his sight again. Not only that, he has wonderful eyesight. Am going to check on this story. The details of a thing like that should be made plain. It would be shameful to have such a yarn inspire false hopes on the part of some of our blinded soldiers.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Snuff consumption is reported at an all-time high. I have never taken a sniff of snuff. What is the great attraction? . . . All experienced pipe smokers have a number of pipes which they use alternately. Bing Crosby carries four pipes with him. . . . Observed Victor Hugo: "When a woman is speaking to you, listen to what she says with her eyes." The old boy was in possession of something there. It is also a good idea to watch a man's eyes when you are talking a business deal with him.

ASIDES: The U. S. Army, having a surplus of 10,000,000 zippers, is turning the same back to the general market. Should be good news for those who like zippers. I prefer buttons. . . . So far there never has been a father who has made the all-American football team who has had a son who has done likewise.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Do you remember the time Fauntleroy kicked the old family coachman?

Fauntleroy had been running around insulting and bullying people generally for a long time. He had been brought up by his mama who said she decided early in his childhood not to cross him and by governesses and tutors who had to humor his whims. As the twig is bent and so forth, and when he grew up his ill manners passed for honest candor and his domineering attitude for highminded and admirable tenacity.

Being rich and of the aristocracy he always had a following of crumb-hunters and flatterers and when he rose to power they used to persecute and insult people whom they happened to envy for their success or hate for their superior ability or their decency.

They would think up sneering gags for him to utter and he would snarl them in public and the crumb-hunters, planted in the crowd as a clique, would touch off the applause and cheers and then run around to the stage door to fall in with him as he was leaving and tell him: "Boy, you certainly laid them in the ovens. What a man you are!"

ANYBODY WHO ran afoul of them was certain to be smeared and it got so that many persons who disagreed with them hesitated to say so for fear of dirty remarks put into Fauntleroy's mouth by his gag-men.

The crumbhunters would jot down nasty little notices as they came to mind in the barber's chair or in saloons and weave them into speeches for Fauntleroy.

They all got a comfortable living out of this but in some cases the mean, malicious satisfaction of harassing and vilifying patriotic men and women whom they recognized in their misanthropic souls as their superiors, was more important than the pay.

And Fauntleroy, himself, having been loaded to from childhood, grew to think of himself as one of the wonder-men of the ages.

More than that, in time in some of his casual remarks which really expressed his own thoughts, he revealed that he was coming to compare himself not only with Lincoln but with Divinity.

FAUNTLEROY EVEN said that those who rejected some of his remarks on better than scoffers at Holy Writ. In fact, he did write a preface to the New Testament for distribution to the soldiers.

Then one day, Fauntleroy kicked the old family coachman.

The coachman had always been docile and submissive and Fauntleroy had been a little more than a hard political contest which actually made the difference between election and defeat.

This submissiveness was due in part to the coachman's genuine kindness, his desire to get along amicably with his followmen and his sense of place.

BUT POSSIBLY, in some part, it was due to a superstition which had grown up that when Fauntleroy had his Dutch up he was a devastating fighter.

Fauntleroy kicked the old coachman with a public insult to him, individually, and to the entire legislative body of Congress, in a message written by the crumbhunters, rejecting a tax bill.

At that, the old coachman seemed to go frantic. He forgot his place, forgot the superstition about Fauntleroy's fury when his Dutch was up and picked up a slat of wood and slammed the astounded Fauntleroy over the head with it, hollering, as he did so, "And furthermore, you can take your lousy job because I quit."

WELL, Fauntleroy's Dutch went down in a rush and he high-tailed it all the way to Hyde Park, screaming "Nana! Nana!" which was the old aristocratic name for a nurse-governess.

When he felt safe up there, he sent the old family coachman a telegram saying he really didn't mean to insult him and wouldn't he reconsider and stay on the job?

And the coachman reconsidered and stayed and was sorry he had shown up the myth of Fauntleroy's tenacious rage when his Dutch was up, for he was conscious that he was, after all, only a coachman and, perhaps, fearful of the awful thing that he had done.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6—Mark my words, even before the official peace in Europe our producers and directors will be trekking to London to make movies.

Last week I mentioned that Howard Hawks had a yen to go over—and now Wesley Ruggles is back in Hollywood after a year of picture making in England with plans to return in three months. Wes' chief chore here is to line up some composers and writers for "London Town," a technicolor musical, scheduled for London production. Ruggles is affiliated with Eagle-Lions Films, J. Arthur Rank's American company over there.

Wes tells me an entire cast of British players will be featured — actors known to the English but not to the American audiences. He says Lt. Col. Jimmy Stewart has 17 missions over Germany to his credit and is highly respected in England. Barrington Gaim, Rank's head financial adviser, is also here to get American talent.

AFTER I HEARD that John Payne was to play Harry Fox, the musician who married Jenny Dolly. I asked Betty Grable if she expected to play Jenny or Rosie Dolly. She said she didn't know because she always lets 20th select her pictures. But when I asked Alice Faye if she were going to play one of the Dolly Twins, I got an emphatic "No." Alice, however, will probably do "State Fair," especially now that Walter Lang is slated to direct it. She has always had good luck with Walter's pictures and they get along like a million. Then, too, she likes Producer Bill Perleberg.

"JUBAL TROOP," which has been a headache to Sam Wood from the beginning, has now been postponed. The reason given is that, because of the coming of winter, it is impossible to shoot the exterior. Also, Humphrey Bogart won't be available for at least three months, so Claudette Colbert, who has waited for two months to make this picture, will now have to make other plans. But, that isn't much worry to her, for there are at least three pictures she can do if she wants, all as important as "Jubal Troop." She could have started "Tomorrow Is Forever," the Bill Goetz picture, if she hadn't given her word to Sam Wood that she'd wait for him.

JOHN CONSIDINE, who has made some of M-G-M's best and most profitable pictures, has tendered his resignation to the company, where he has been a producer for 12 or more years. Among John's better pictures are "Boytown," "Sequoia," "Johnny Eager," "A Yank at Eton" and others. He and M-G-M parted the best of friends. Johnny will announce his plans shortly.

ONE THING about Preston Sturges, he doesn't underrate his own talents. He was approached recently to act as commentator on a radio show. "Yes, I am interested," drawled Sturges, "provided you give me a two-hour show and build a theater for me." Which shows how interested Pres really was in the idea. He has just signed Ray Steele, the Marine in "Hail the Conquering Hero," to a long-term contract. Steele, incidentally, is the first actor signed by Mr. Sturges.

RICHARD GREENE is not coming back to Hollywood. That will be a blow to his fans who had hoped they would be seeing him now that he has received his honorable discharge from the Army. In cable, Dick, who is under contract to 20th Century-Fox, relays the information that he is now in France with his wife and will remain there entertaining the soldiers until the war is over. When Richard left here he was the Alan Ladd of the day, at the very top with the young fans. He was engaged to Virginia Fields, but he married a girl in London and Virginia married Paul Douglas, radio announcer.

EVEN TWO important writing jobs have to wait when a war mother decides to visit her son in camp. At least, Stella Unger is pigeon-holing her assignment on "Cabbages and Kings," which she co-authored with Joan Alison for M-G-M, to head down South to see her boy, Lt. Robert Lewis Unger. After a week or 10 days with him she goes on to New York to arrange to write the "book" on a Broadway musical. She won't be back here until late in October for, like most of us parents, she feels that nothing comes before a chance to be with our children.

Boston American, Oct. 6-25

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RAN- LGM: Don't be surprised if Jackie Cogan and Ramsey Ames make an announcement when he reaches here Oct. 23; 'tis whispered that Lt. Com- Douglas Fairbanks, who has had four years' service overseas, may be stationed in the U. S. A. shortly; Shirley Temple will make a speech in French when she opens a bond rally in Montreal; Jack Warner is a flu victim and laid up for a few days; Lita Doris is expected back in three weeks. The Atlanta newspapers really carried a full account of her visit there and the house she is now living in, in Phenixville, near Ft. Benning, where Cpl. Louis Riley is stationed; Dick Powell has to move into an apartment with his father because his own house was sold; Linda Darnell has given her maid a long-term contract—not a bad idea; John Wildberg and his pretty blonde wife have gone back to New York. I hear that Lena Horne would love to play in the movie version of Wildberg's "Anna Lucasta," now on Broadway; Diana Lynn will be 18 Saturday; Capt. Jack Reynolds, Marjorie's husband, who went through seven months of robot bombing in London, returned to peaceful Hollywood only to get the flu; Maria Montez' black sweater with the pink elephants, made especially for her by her mother-in-law, is being widely copied; Al Hall will direct Rosalind Russell in "Some Cuddly Love" as soon as she is well enough to work, which should be some time in November; Capt. Ronnie Reagan and Jane Wiman danced every dance together at the Clover Club. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

COPYRIGHT, 1944, King Features Synd., Inc.
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Marjorie is the daughter of a Southern army man, and an heiress, to many millions on her mama's side. Not long ago she came to New York on a vacation and liked the town so well she decided to stay.

Her dad, a proper Southern gent, consented to her stay in the big city on one condition—that she associate only with old friends of the family. To which Marjorie happily agreed.

And she stuck to her part of the bargain. She found an apartment in an ultra-refined section, went to work as a model, and was seen about the bistros with only the elderly, respectable variety of Mayflower-stock gentlemen.

One of these was a Congressman whom we will call Congressman Joe. He introduced Marjorie to the leading citizens of New York as well as the most flamboyant characters in the city society, and gradually the fastidious Marjorie dropped the other Mayflower-stock old gentlemen and was seen solely in the company of Congressman Joe.

SINCE SHE was by now one of the most popular cover girls, naturally the two some caused considerable notice—and in a very short while Congressman Joe's wife summoned him to her mansion, and gradually the fastidious Marjorie dropped the other Mayflower-stock old gentlemen and was seen solely in the company of Congressman Joe.

Congressman Joe packed his bags, went home, and effected a reconciliation. Marjorie went along her merry way, en route to stardom—or something.

But while Cong. Joe pursues his affairs of state, few of his distinguished colleagues are aware that he would have tossed his career to the winds if the young and beautiful model would have accepted his offer of marriage. Because when a famous statesman is willing to sacrifice everything for romance—and is spurned—You Can't Print That!

By George Dixon

IF I UNDERSTAND Murray's reasoning, practically everyone in the history of the world can be denounced as a flop.

Look at all the misfeasance, malfeasance, nonfeasance—you must come up for the feascance shooting!—and dereliction you can charge!

For instance, Joe Louis, in all his years as heavyweight boxing champion, never equalled the accomplishments of Whirlaway because he failed to win the Kentucky Derby.

Secretary Ickes, despite the eminence of his cabinet position, never won a wrestling championship. The fact that he can burp as loud doesn't make any difference.

Mr. Murray himself, with all his glory as head of the CIO, has never turned out a song but nor swum the English channel. At least, I don't think so; although those labor leaders are forever doing things you don't hear about.

Even the great librarian of Congress, Archibald MacLeish, who is credited with being able to balance three sonnets on the end of his nose, is not so funny as Joe E. Lewis.

I could go on like this indefinitely, but I am getting tired of it too. The only thing I will add is that Mr. Roosevelt himself, though 12 years as President, has not equalled Mr. Dewey's accomplishment in becoming the Republican nominee!

I HAD A most interesting chat the other day with Mr. Charles Michelson, the venerable Democratic ghost. Despite his years, he is still busy thinking up the nasty cracks that the Democratic orators throw at the Republicans.

He has been publicized as a ghost so much that some people apparently take it literally. At any rate, just before I arrived, he had received a book from an unknown admirer:

"Great Tales of Terror and the Supernatural."

I asked Charlie how old he was, whereupon he became kittenish. He said he was as old as the hills. But when I asked him how old the hills were, he said "about 75."

Mr. Michelson does nearly everything in reverse. He spends his working week in New York and comes to Washington week-ends for relaxation.

He said he doesn't care if the psychiatrists do catch up with him because he has never pretended to be rational.

Boston After Dark

THE SEDATE and SUBDUED atmosphere of the Parker House grill, where dinner is served under an almost ceremonious hush, was punctuated by a violent outburst that saw both gore and fists fly in an exciting interlude of two or three minutes. . . . The combat was brief and to the point. . . . Under the impression that another diner had stigmatized him by a contemptuous remark based on race, a stocky gentleman delivered a very effective one-two punch to the chin, and a sweeping cross to the cheekbone.

IN THE FRACAS, a lady at another table intercepted a body before it kissed the floor—the body being that of the alleged insulter. . . . At this, a gentleman who later said he swung his right hand for a living, climbed to a chair and demanded that both principals in the affray be "locked up." An interested observer was Phil Bucola, manager of Ralph Zanelli, who tangles tonight at the Garden with Coley Welch. . . . Phil's dry humor came to the fore after the belligerent bystander made known that he once earned a living by "swinging his right hand." . . . Mr. Bucola surveyed this fellow-diner calmly and remarked: "Shooting craps, perhaps?"

MEANTIME, THE GENTLEMAN who was the hero of the encounter had left the room. . . . This is to inform him that he would be advised to get some witnesses. . . . The man who got slapped returned to the dining-room, after ministrations to a bloody left eye, and announced that he was going to sue. . . . Later, a boxing expert would be the proper reporter for assignment to the after-dark "beat."

SWITCHING TO PROFESSIONAL fistfights for the time, some enthusiasm is being generated for a young (18 years old) lightweight named Charlie Smith. . . . Charlie's career to date has been confined to bouts in Fall River and Providence, but his three-round knockout last night of Jeanne Barriere of Montreal was being described with huzzas around the nightclub ringides early today. . . . A boxing sage such as Frankie Da Rice, now a foremost promoter in Montreal and once the boxer who fought the best of the lightweights under the nom de guerre of Hugo Kelly (of Portland) was willing to be quoted as saying that "Young Smith is the best lightweight prospect in the country today." . . . The kid's record is clear. . . . He has had six fights and has won them all—by knockouts.

THE BOOM in the boxing "game" is being reflected in more than one after-dark spot in town. . . . At the Music Box, for instance, a bout between Tippy Larkin and Ike Williams, the colored lightweight, was proposed first this early morning. . . . Larkin meets Henry Armstrong at Madison Square Garden in New York this month. . . . Johnny Costello, boss of the Music Box, one time silent manager of Armstrong and now the chief mentor in the career of Williams, is being urged to okay a Larkin-Williams fight for Boston in November. . . . The "boys" seem to think it would be a "natural."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—On the set of "Salty O'Rourke," Alan Ladd and Gail Russell and a group of extras are doing a scene, but the story is really Director Raoul Walsh and an actress who isn't even in the picture.

Lillian Gish

The actress is Lillian Gish, who is working in "Miss Susie Slagle's." . . . She walked next door to say hello to Director Walsh. They go back to the days when pictures didn't talk and they were both working for D. W. Griffith. . . . In fact, the pair were original members of the Biograph Company, along with Mary Pickford and Owen Moore. Walsh had started in the business as an actor, Miss Gish and Walsh were in Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation." Walsh portrayed John Wilkes Booth.

"When are you going to act in a picture for me?" asked Director Walsh. "I've directed many, but none with Miss Gish and nothing would please me more."

"Well, there's no time like the present," answered Lillian. "Let's do it now." . . . And that's exactly what happened. A crowd scene at a racetrack with a throng of extras was next on the program. Lillian Gish stepped into the crowd and joined the mob scene. Director Walsh saw to it that his favorite got a close-up.

MARSHA HUNT is supposed to slide down the banister in her bustle and keep the bustle from rustling, for a scene in "Valley of Decision."

But the bustle will hardly slide and when it does, for an inch or two, it rustles too loudly for the sound track. . . . Finally, Director Tay Garnett and cameraman Joe Ruttenberg go into a huddle. They smile, and the scene is filmed. This is how it is done: Marsha rushes to the banister, perches on it, then the camera moves to Greer Garson, who is seated below. While the camera focuses on Miss Garson, the wardrobe woman rushes to the stairs, removes Marsha's bustle, darts out of sight, Marsha slides as the camera pans back to her, and she skids into Peck's arms. How did people ever do things in those costumes?

THE CAMERA again moves to Miss Garson while the wardrobe woman hastily replaces Marsha's bustle just in time for the camera to pan back to Marsha. Now, complete with bustle, as she walks off arm-in-arm with Gregory Peck. This is what is known as cheating with the camera.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—For the better part of a week now I have been trying to digest a statement by CIO President Philip Murray to the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, which, by an utterly fantastic coincidence, is also CIO.

Either my digestive processes are sluggish or Mr. Murray is indigestible. I am inclined against the latter because a great many geophagous little groups seem to have no difficulty in swallowing everything he says.

I am not going to tell you what "geophagous" means because it is time you did a little work, too. If you are too lazy to look it up you can stay ignorant.

However, what Mr. Murray had to say was this:

"Dewey in two long years as Governor of New York has done nothing to equal the accomplishments of Roosevelt!"

Frankly, I don't get it. I may be too backward for this kind of thinking, but it seems to me that the only way anyone can equal the accomplishments of a President is to be President.

From everything I hear, Dewey has been a pretty high-class Governor in fact, but he has complained quite a lot more in two years than a certain predecessor did in four. But he has not yet been President, although there are rumors all over the place that he has to be.

There seems to be no logical basis for comparison.

Wed Seven Years, She's So Unhappy

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I've been married seven years, but am very unhappy. My marriage was a farouge, because I felt sorry for this man, who was being badly treated by his family, and gave up my work in the city to become his wife. And now he doesn't appreciate me.

I'm working in a doctor's office as receptionist, and have to earn the living for both of us. I'm so nervous sometimes, I could scream. I want to leave and go to the city and take training as a nurse. My employer says I have good grounds for a divorce. Even my husband's people feel sorry for me.

When a man is not incapacitated by illness or physical handicap, there is no valid reason why he shouldn't work, the same as his wife does. Neither of you seems to care particularly about the other, and you spend a good deal of time in charges and countercharges, as stated in your rather long letter. As the shortage of nurses becomes more acute daily, I can see no reason why you should not enlist in this profession.

ONE OF the dresses that is most famous this season among the fashion experts is Claire Potter's double-top dress, which Miss Dulin has sketched for you. It is the kind of dress that makes any woman who wears it feel dainty and desirable, and at the same time it is mighty practical.

The dress is made of dead black Bianchini flannel crepe, a wonderful material that holds its shape beautifully. There are two waists. First the black waist, which has ample bishop sleeves slit from shoulders to cuffs, and a deep U-shaped neckline at the front. Inside is a waist of white tulle crepe which shows through the slit black sleeves and at the front like a dicky. The skirt is simple, slim and graceful. Buttons fasten the model in front. A Claire Potter stock- ing cape, made of black jersey, goes with this dress. It has a very long fall at the back.

THOUGH HER UNIFORM is strictly masculine . . . her heart is strictly feminine. Despite her G. I. helmet she's a woman for all that . . . who can swoon with delight over feminine fripperies and niceties. So lest you forget to remember the things you shouldn't forget . . . we're listing some of the special needs she craves and longs for.

A jar of a famous-named solidified brilliantine . . . a wonderful hair and scalp conditioner as well . . . would be as welcome as a ten-day furlough. In hot, sun-baked countries . . . where hair has a tendency to dry out and split on the ends . . . this non-greasy, non-sticky brilliantine will counteract such effects. Easy to use . . . a little will go a long way . . . and it is delicately scented with the most refreshing smell.

Whether she's blonde, brunette or brownette . . . powdered shampoo, conveniently packed in slim envelopes . . . and taking up next-to-nothing space is humdinger remembrance. It is also a Christmas must for him to keep his pate thoroughly spotless. A separate powdered rinse is added to the envelope . . . especially created to enhance the natural highlights of the hair.

And for a real morale booster . . . there's a clinging, velvety-soft talcum . . . a luxury she'll truly treasure. My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday—Most of my time yesterday was spent at the conference on rural education at the White House.

The morning session ended with a speech by Dr. John W. Studebaker, commissioner, U. S. Office of Education, and the need for the Office of Education to be in close touch with the problems of rural education, particularly on the administrative side, seemed to me to emerge very clearly.

The various states, as they contemplate reorganization, should be able to call upon the Office of Education for information and assistance, which can only be given where there is centered a great body of research.

IN THE AFTERNOON, Dr. Katharine F. Lenoir, chief of the Children's Bureau, showed how closely the bureau is interested in all the problems of the rural child. Very informative addresses were also made by Dr. Cyril W. Grace, president of State Teachers' College, Mayville, N. D., and by Miss Fannie W. Dunn, professor emerita of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

The panel discussion, led by Dr. Carl C. Taylor, head of the division of farm population and rural welfare, U. S. Department of Agriculture, also brought out many important and interesting sidelights.

After the President addressed the conference, everybody wandered through the rooms and came into the state dining room for a cup of tea.

THIS MORNING the five committees set up to consider the specific phases of rural education made their reports. I found it a most interesting session, but, as usual, I think the most interesting time is the discussion period. This was made one minute shorter by a request that I produce Fala. I also had to produce a piece of cake so Fala would do his tricks!

OFFICE FAMILIARITY! You may hear the receptionist called "Kitty" or "Kay" by co-workers of long standing but remember she's still "Miss Greene" to you. So, too, it is bad form to use such expressions as "Good night, Beautiful" or "Hi, Babel"

"G.I. JANE" represents thousands of WACs who'll be spending Christmas in any one of twelve foreign countries this year. Despite her tailored garb . . . she craves the soft, feminine fancies with as much swoon-delight as her civilian sisters. Green Tomato Recipes That Have Won Favor

By MARTHA LEE

GOING BY THE FRUIT STORE this morning we noticed many large boxes of green tomatoes, which reminded us that there is still time to enjoy some of these used)

 1/2 onion, chopped
 3 1/2 cups water
 3 medium-sized green tomatoes
 2 cups cubed potatoes
 1 1/2 cups sliced carrots
 Roll meat in mixture of salt, pepper, and 2 tablespoons of the flour. Brown in fat. Add onion; cook until lightly browned. Pour in 2 cups of water, cover, and simmer about 1 hour or until meat is almost tender. Wash, remove stem ends, and quarter the tomatoes; add with potatoes, carrots, and 1 cup water to the meat. Cover and cook until vegetables and meat are tender. Add more water as needed. Blend remaining 2 tablespoons flour with the 1/4 cup water; add to stew, and cook until slightly thickened.

GREEN TOMATO PIE
 6 to 8 medium-sized tomatoes
 2 tbsp. lemon juice
 1 tsp. grated lemon or orange rind
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/8 tsp. cinnamon
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tbsp. cornstarch
 1 tsp. table fat
 Wash, remove stem ends, and slice tomatoes. Combine lemon juice, lemon or orange rind, salt, and cinnamon. Cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix sugar and cornstarch; add to tomato mixture and cook until clear, stirring constantly. Add fat. Cool slightly, then pour into a 9-inch pie plate lined with pastry. Cover with pastry and seal edges. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 40 to 50 minutes.

UNCOOKED GREEN TOMATO CHOW CHOW
 1 qt. (6 to 7 medium-sized) finely chopped green tomatoes
 1 cup finely chopped cabbage
 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
 1/4 cup salt
 1 tbsp. dry mustard
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 cup vinegar
 1 tbsp. celery seed
 2 tbsp. nonpareils
 Sprinkle layers of tomatoes, cabbage, onion and green pepper with salt; let stand overnight. In the morning squeeze vegetables dry. Add other ingredients. Pour into clean jars and cover. Keep in refrigerator, or other place as cold, relish will keep from two to three weeks.

CURRY OF MEAT WITH GREEN TOMATOES
 1 onion, sliced
 1 tbsp. meat drippings or other fat
 1 qt. sliced green tomatoes
 3 cups chopped, cooked meat
 1 to 2 tsp. curry powder
 Salt to taste
 Cook onion in the fat. Add green tomatoes, cover and cook until tender. Add meat and heat thoroughly. If the mixture is too thick, thin it slightly with meat broth, gravy or water. Season to taste with curry powder and salt. Serve with flaky boiled rice or noodles.

GREEN TOMATO MEAT STEW
 1 lb. chuck, cubed
 1 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. pepper
 1/2 tsp. flour
 2 tbsp. fat (beef fat may be used)

Sen. Reed's Plan For Reich Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—A plan to keep German industry and labor producing after the war as they have under Hitler, but turning over excess output to the Allies as reparations was advanced today by Sen. Reed (R.) of Kansas.

"This would not be asking the impossible of the German people," Reed told reporters, "only what Hitler required. And you would make the industrial organization of Germany available for reparations in kind, not in money."

For ten years, he said, Hitler has kept the Germans on a certain basis of hours worked per week—required, not optional. And, by means of controlled prices and rations, he said Hitler had kept the people on a fixed standard of living.

Sulfa, Plasma—and Air

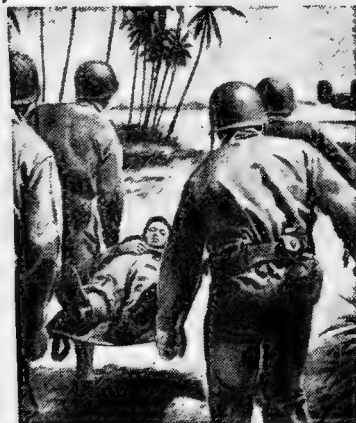

1 Thousands of wounded Americans have been evacuated from battle zones by air. Said the Air Surgeon General's report: "The record places air evacuation in a group with sulfa and plasma as one of the three greatest lifesavers of modern military medicine."

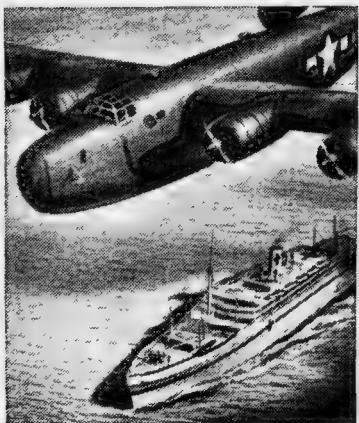

2 In long-range transport planes such as the Liberator Express, which are readily converted into flying ambulances, no wounded American fighter is more than 60 hours' flying time from the finest hospital in the U. S. A.

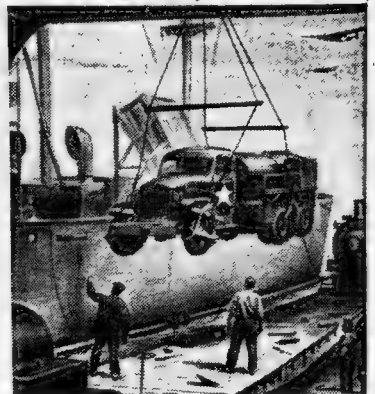

3 As the hospital plane streaks across the ocean, a flight nurse gives somebody's blood—perhaps yours—to this wounded soldier, who might otherwise never get home for the special care that will restore him to health.

4 From many a remote and inaccessible combat zone, such as the South Pacific and the Burma theater of operations, the plane is the only means of getting casualties back to base hospitals.

5 The ambulance, hospital train, and hospital ship still transport most of our war casualties as in the last war. But many a time when minutes can save a life, the 4-mile-a-minute speed of the flying ambulance does exactly that!

6 Today the truck, the train, the ship, and the plane are teaming up together to win the war. The task of rebuilding the peacetime world will challenge all forms of transportation in the same way. But the plane will have still another role to fulfill: a permanent postwar Air Force can well become the ever-watchful guardian of the peace we shall have won so dearly.

Consolidated Vultee is the largest builder of airplanes in the world.

No spot on earth is more than 60 hours' flying time from your local airport

CONSOLIDATED VULTEE AIRCRAFT CORPORATION

From "Flying Jeeps" to Leviathans of the air—The planes shown below were all designed and developed by Consolidated Vultee. When peace comes, the company will be in a position to provide the postwar equivalent of such planes, from small, privately owned "air rivers" to huge, transoceanic cargo-and-passenger planes.

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTON SOCIETY will be well represented at the wedding in Washington tomorrow of Lt. William F. Draper, USNR, prominent Hub portrait painter, and Miss Barbara Cagiati, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Cagiati of New York, formerly of Rome, Italy.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Clare Hill Draper of The Riverway, has left for the Capital with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Draper, to join Harry Draper and his wife, the former Betty Cullen of Beverly Farms, who are going from Westbury, L. I., which has been their home since last spring. Lilla Joy Draper (Mrs. Arthur) Calfee, the groom's sister, will entertain some of the family as house guests at her Washington home, and they will all be present at the festive bridal dinner party this evening given by Madame Margaret Draper Boncompagni, aunt of the bridegroom.

Lt. Draper, a combat artist with the Navy, recently returned from the Pacific where he painted for historical records some of the largest battles of the past few years. He is a descendant of one of New England's most distinguished families which counts ambassadors and governors among its most famous members. His bride-to-be likewise has many prominent family connections here, her mother being the former Caroline Higbee of Boston, sister of Mrs. Walter Channing of Dover and Mrs. Robert Raymond of Milton.

MRS. CHARLES TOPPAN of Cambridge arrived to take her turn as pourer at the Caledonian Market's donation tea carrying a 150-year-old warming pan donated by her neighbor, Mrs. Curtis Cross, in whose family it has been a treasured antique for many years. This and an exquisite rose-point lace fan from Mrs. G. Loring Briggs of Brookline were among the many treasures admired by the tea guests who included Mrs. William Bayne in a modish black wool dress with an oval neckline accented by a jeweled clip; Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith, Mrs. Merrill Griswold, Mrs. Livingston Davis who helped serve refreshments; Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, mother of debutante Sabra, who wore silver initials on the lapel of her grey wool dress; Miss Aimee Lamb, the artist; Miss Judith Marsland, Mrs. Robert Herrick, Mrs. Richard Wood and Mrs. John E. Kennedy, chairman of the uptown branch of British War Relief Society which sponsors the Caledonian Market.

Purpose of the tea was to emphasize the need of donated articles to sell for the support of the Heritage Craft Schools in England where crippled children are taught self-supporting trades.

THE FIRST WEEK in October, which traditionally marks the beginning of another social season, finds members of the executive committee of the Boston Morning Musicians back in town and hard at work on plans for the 17th season of this fashionable concert series which benefits the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. The committee includes Mrs. John W. Myers, Mrs. Wm. Emerson Barrett, Mrs. John A. Greene, Miss Harriet A. Robeson, Mrs. Theodore T. Whitney, Jr., and Mrs. J. L. Parker Whittington.

200 Huge Dead Fish Australian Problem

ADELAIDE, Australia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Two hundred blackfish carcasses, ranging up to 16 feet in length, stranded by the tide, littered a five-mile stretch of Primes beach on the South Australian coast today as residents pondered the malodorous problem of their disposal.

Welch and Zanelli In Title Go Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

COLEY WELCH of Portland and Ralph Zanelli of Providence each insist they will punch their way to victory when they clash in a 12-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight. The rival hitters are in the best possible condition for the tussle. Welch is a 10 to 8 favorite.

Welch's New England middleweight title will be at stake. The Portland boxer recently successfully defended his championship against Zanelli in a bout that ended in a foul in the sixth round. The bout was more of a whiff braw than a boxing contest.

While the fans are anxious to see Zanelli and Welch furnish action, they do not care to see a repetition of their last bout. The public demands a hard, clean battle, and it is up to the referee to see that the fans get a run for their money.

Johnny Buckley, Zanelli's manager, would like to see Johnny Martin named referee. It is understood that Martin has not any particular desire to accept the job.

Boxing Commissioners Sam Smith and Dez Wadsworth will not make their choice known until ring time. They should put a runner into the ring who will be in complete command of the situation and who will not permit the bout to get away from him.

It is Zanelli's contention that Welch was guilty of as many infractions of the rules as he was in their last bout.

Let Zanelli and Welch come out of their corners fighting. They should remember they are in a bout for a ring title and that hard, terrific fighting is what the fans wish to see. Paul Bowser, who stages mat bouts at the Arena, would probably give Zanelli and Welch very low ratings as wrestlers. It would be silly for Zanelli and Welch to resort to wrestling holds when they are being paid to punch it out.

Welch Will Have Weight

WELCH WILL have a weight advantage in his favor. He will be a shade over 160 pounds when he enters the ring, while Zanelli, a welterweight, will be at least eight pounds lighter.

Zanelli punches as hard as Welch and has an exceptionally powerful body. He has not any reason to worry because the Portland favorite will outweigh him.

The controversy over the last Zanelli-Welch bout will result in a large crowd turning out for tonight's bout.

Pete Reilly, American representative of Marcel Cerdan, will be at the ringside. Reilly plans to match the sensational Frenchman with the victor of the Garden skirmish.

Giants Here on Sunday

THE NEW YORK Giants will be here on Sunday for a professional football game with the Yanks. The Giants have a well organized, powerful team, and should give Boston and New England fans some new football thrills.

Herb Kopf has the Yanks ready for their tussle with the Giants. Herb says his club will show much better offensive football than it did against the Philadelphia Eagles. The Yanks have had more time to play together, and as a result they should be more proficient in their game.

It will be the first Sunday afternoon professional game between two National Football League clubs since George Marshall took the Redskins out of town and located in Washington. There are thousands of persons who cannot attend Saturday games who can turn out for a Sunday gridiron clash.

Royal Reception For Donnelly

OLIVIA, Minn., Oct. 6 (AP)—Blix Donnelly is going to get a royal reception in Olivia, his hometown, after the world series. Donnelly, by the way, was the pitcher of yesterday's Cardinal 3-2 victory over the Browns to even the series.

Mrs. Charles Donnelly, his mother, is already planning a fried chicken dinner with all the fixins' while his father, a barber, is in St. Louis to get in on the big baseball show.

All Olivia is waiting for the series to end and the day when Blix can come home to do a little hunting and visit with the townfolk.

Blix Donnelly Proves Magician of Series

By JOE CASHMAN

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—This World Series, entering the third round this afternoon, is billed as a battle between the American League champion Browns and the National League champion Cardinals, both of St. Louis.

But this World Series, up to now, has been a battle between 25 Browns and one solitary and hitherto "unknown" named Sylvester (Blix) Donnelly, whose seasonal stint for the Red Birds is listed as two victories and one defeat.

The boisterous Browns have chased Mort Cooper, Cards' right-handed ace, and Max Lanier, Cards' left-handed ace, to premarriage showers. Yet the American Leaguers are no nearer the world's title this morning than they were on the morning of the opening game.

They beat Cooper, 2-1, to start off on the right foot. They overcame a two-run lead they had handed Lanier in the second game, but they were kept on their left foot thereafter by the Donnelly person, until the Cards got around to scoring an 11th inning run for a 3-2 decision in a history-making encounter.

"Blix" and his "ghost ball" baffled and bewildered them into submission over the last four laps of the marathon, just as the same combination had baffled and bewildered them in the final two heats of the first game.

JACK KRAMER DUE TODAY

So the city rivals are starting from scratch again today, with the Browns becoming the white-uniformed home club for the first time.

The Browns, as they prepare to take the field back of Jack Kramer, don't think the change of uniform color will enhance or reduce their chances against Rookie Ted Wilks, who is slated to start for the National Leaguers.

But don't think for a moment that the Browns aren't interested in this home-road shift.

They're wondering, you see, if Mister Sylvester U. Donnelly is as difficult to solve in grey as he has been in white.

Yes, this 29-year-old yearling of the Cards' staff, at this writing, the big figure of a series wherein nobody expected him to play but a very minor, obscure role, if any.

The Browns have no fear of Cooper or Lanier. They think they can go to town against Wilks in spite of the latter's flashy freshman record of 17 victories as against only four defeats. They're confident they can take the measure of Harry "Lefty" Brecheen tomorrow.

But what they are going to do about Donnelly, frankly they don't know, while fully realizing that unless they find the answer, this young man from Minnesota may steer his Cardinal mates to the world's championship.

HOW BLIX DID PITCH

There's no apparent rhyme or reason to Blix' performance. A pitcher with a 2-1 season's card, he's looked like a hurler who must have authored a 50-0 record over the campaign.

He faced just six batters and

BULLETIN

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (INS)—Fair weather was promised by the weather bureau today for the third game of the all-St. Louis World Series.

The bureau prediction was for fair weather with little change in temperature and a high of 83 degrees.

fanned two over the last two innings of the Wednesday game. Nobody paid much attention.

The only attention anybody paid when he was called on to relieve Lanier in the eighth yesterday was to stop long enough to ask why he was being put in there two days running while a fellow like Fred Schmidt, rated the Cards' No. 1 fireman, was still in the bull pen.

Everybody soon found out, particularly the Browns.

Mike Kreeich had opened the inning with a double off Lanier. That was all for Max, who had pitched one hit ball for 6-2-3 innings and had seen a two-run lead over Nelson Potter disappear as Gene Moore singled. Myron Hayworth doubled and Pinch Hitter Frank Mancuso doubled.

Cheo Laabe was first up against Blix. He tried to bunt. Before he could, he struck out. Up stepped home-run king Vern Stephens. He didn't try to bunt. But he struck out, just the same. Blix was all for fanning McQuinn then, but he got orders to pass George. He did. Then he struck out Mark Christman.

In setting the Browns down in order in the ninth he fanned George Muncief, who had replaced Potter in the eighth.

Then, in the 11th, McQuinn got the only real Brownie hit off the tyro in six stanzas. He doubled to open the frame.

Now Christman tried to sacrifice. He couldn't have made a better bid. He dropped a perfect bunt down the third base line.

After that, his mates put him over. Sanders singled, was sacrificed to second, Marion was purposely passed and pinch-hitter Ken O'Dea ended the marathon with a single to right.

Thus, Donnelly now has pitched six scoreless innings during which he has hung up nine strikeouts and given but two hits.

And the way he strikes 'em out. Every strike that wasn't taken with a bat frozen to shoulder was missed by a yard. The Browns just don't know what he's all about.

Costantino, Bolvin To Box Here Oct. 26

Lulu Costantino of New York has been signed to clash with Larry Bolvin of Providence in a 10-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building on Oct. 26.

The Callahan A. C. will open its fall boxing season with a tussle between Bobby Ruffin and Vince Dell'Orto on Oct. 13.

Harvard Heavily Favored Over B. C.

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Boston College has never beaten Harvard in football. Past scores: 1918—Harvard 14, BC 6; 1919—Harvard 17, BC 6. What will the morrow bring? That bristling tomorrow when they tangle before some 50,000 on the stadium greensward?

On what horse players term past performance, the score should be Harvard 40, BC 6.

Harvard has been practicing since Aug. 7. Harvard has many veterans of the '43 campaign—end Rod Perkins, qb Wally Trumbull, rhh Paul Garrity, ends Dana Bresnahan and Paul Geeson, guard Eddie Davis, tackle Eddie Sweeney. Harvard has played three games, all smashing victories—Tufts 19-12, Bates 43-6, Worcester Poly 13-0.

Harvard has many V-12's who will be in the Pacific next year and who want to wallop everybody in sight before they wallop the Japs. Harvard has the will to win.

Harvard will be starting only two veterans of the 1943 games: Co-Capt. and 4-F's center George Donelan and guard Pete Baleyko. Remaining nine starters come from such whiz bang football incubators as St. Clement's High of Somerville, Cathedral High, Catholic Central of Lawrence, Immaculate Conception High of Revere. All will be making their intercollegiate debut.

TOUGH TASK FOR BC

Odds are all in Harvard's favor. Henry Lamar's team, every opposing coach has said, should be playing formal opponents like Yale, Brown, Dartmouth and Holy Cross. Harvard, indeed, has expressed a willingness to play such opponents on Nov. 4 and Nov. 18, between which dates a return number with Tufts is scheduled. Harvard has reversed 13 decisions on Tufts and Worcester Poly vs. Harvard is willing to play BC again in November if BC can hold its own tomorrow.

Can BC hold its own? There is no Eddie Doherty in the backfield. Yet last year when Doherty was chased from the game, little Charlie McCoy took over at quarterback and made himself a BC immortal.

There will be no McCoy in BC's

Nelson Resigns Pro Job at Inverness

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 6 (INS)—Byron Nelson, leading money winner of the 1944 golf season, resigned today as pro at the Toledo Inverness Country Club, a job he had held since 1940.

The 32-year-old Texan has accepted a position as vice president of the Haas-Jordan Co., a Toledo umbrella manufacturing concern. He said he intends to maintain his residence in Toledo and continue to play tournament golf.

Hunters Get Break On OPA Shell Ruling

The OPA announced today that retailers are no longer allowed to add 25 per cent to sales of less than one full box of cartridge or shotgun shells.

Shotgun and cartridge shells are under OPA ceilings. OPA officials said some retailers had been refusing to sell full boxes so that they could add 25 per cent to sales of less. The ruling has been in effect since Oct. 1.

SWING TO BROWNS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Definitely favoring the Browns in the second game of yesterday's World Series, the crowd roared in glee when the American leaguers tied the score on pinch hitter Frank Mascuso's single scoring Hayworth with the tying run. Neutral the first day, the fans apparently were proving the old adage that everyone loves a winner.

Irish, Dartmouth Choices Tomorrow

By The Associated Press
After running into 12 losses and five ties against 31 correct selections last weekend, the AP grid selectors went to work again today. Here's how they saw the morrow's games:

Iowa-Ohio State—Our bucks are on the old home town Bucks. Tulane-Notre Dame—Maybe someone will stop Bob Kelly and the rest of the Irish, but not this week. Notre Dame.

Duke-North Carolina Navy—The Blue Devils on the rebound after Saturday's upset by Penn. Duke.

Iowa Seahawks-Second Air Force—Our neck is out, but we'll take the Air Force to make it six straight wins.

Tennessee-Mississippi The Vols, comfortably. Tennessee.

Dartmouth - Pennsylvania — These Penn freshman backs and that 202-pound line look good, but Dartmouth gets the nod—a hesitant one.

Holy Cross-Temple (Friday)—Rated off its 6-6 tie with Dartmouth, it looks like Holy Cross.

Cornell-Yale — Impressive against Syracuse and Bucknell, Carl Siavely's boys look like winners. Cornell.

Texas Christian-Arkansas—No one has scored on the Horned Frogs yet, and that's good enough. Texas Christian.

Washington-Willamette—Washington beat Willamette 71 to 0 in the opening game, so you guess this one.

Kansas at Tulsa—It's no guess. Tulsa.

Great Lakes-Northwestern Lt. Paul Brown, Great Lakes coach didn't like that tie with Illinois—so Great Lakes.

Marquette-Wisconsin — The Badgers, looking forward to that

Boston American, Oct. 6—41

Oct. 14 date with Ohio State, won't show too much—but it will be enough. Wisconsin.

Michigan-Minnesota—A toss-up, but string along with Minnesota on her home lot.

Purdue-Illinois—You can't discount that tie with Great Lakes, so it's Illinois.

Brown-Army—The power-plus Cadets on the march. Army.

California-Southern California—By a shade—California.

A fast once-over: Georgia Tech over South Carolina. Kentucky over Michigan State. Georgia over Presbyterian (Friday). Jacksonville Navy over Florida. V. M. I. over Richmond. Columbus over Syracuse. Navy over Penn State. Harvard over Boston College. West Virginia over Virginia. Sampon Naval over Villanova. Pittsburgh over Bethany. Lafayette over N. Y. U. San Diego over C. L. A. Arizona State Teachers over Nevada.

The Lost Weekend

Based on the powerful, best-selling novel of five unforgettable days in a man's life

He picked up his jacket to find the money...

Helen was trying to check up—that was the phone.

At the pawnshop, Don bumped into a gate.

A TELEPHONE was ringing somewhere. Don opened his eyes. Where was he? Home? His mother's? Oh, here. He listened to the phone. It stopped and he closed his eyes, relieved. It began to ring again, stinging him like some nasty metallic kind of gnaw. He'd never answer it.

The phone finally stopped ringing. He looked at the clock. It was half-past nine, broad daylight. He looked for the bottle. It was on the table. A great big quart. Large as life and twice as empty.

He got up and realized how weak he was. Fool: what was the matter with his brain, if any? Why did he never save a drink? Well, the liquor stores were open; it was Saturday. He knew that much. They could deliver.

He picked up his jacket and vest to find the money first. He went through the pockets. Then he put the coat down because the money must be in his pants. It wasn't. He began to feel panic.

He went through the whole routine twice. There had been more than twenty-five dollars yesterday. Where was it? You couldn't spend twenty-five dollars at Sam's no matter how hard you tried. Had he lost it?

Well, he'd find some other way. He got his portable typewriter and set it in the toy. He'd have to shave. He couldn't go out like this. To the corner was all right but not as far as the pawnshop. His hands shook but he managed, the sweat stood out on his forehead.

What had become of the money? Maybe he better go look again. No, he wasn't going to drive himself crazy doing that. He'd looked.

Helen, of course, was trying to check up on him.

That was the telephone. Well, she wouldn't get him. He sat down in the living room, panting, his heart pounding. It was exhaustion. Physically, he had reached the bottom. Could he possibly make the pawnshop, carrying a typewriter? Still, if there was a bottle to be had... he got up.

He made the corner and turned north into the swarming, clanging, shouting hell that was Second Avenue on a Saturday morning. The three dimly gold balls hung out over the street far ahead. He doggedly put one foot in front of the other.

Overhead the L roared. His nerves were so jumpy he didn't dare trust his senses. Horns shrilled at him. He turned into the entrance of the pawnshop at last and bumped into a closed iron gate...

Crack Saugus High Eleven Invades Chelsea Stadium

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Football fireworks will open another carnival of week-end schoolboy games tonight, exploding first at the Chelsea Stadium with the invasion of Saugus under the floodlights, carrying over to Newton for the Melrose clash tomorrow afternoon and then splintering throughout Greater Boston in its grand finale Sunday afternoon. And as the schedule proceeds, according to plan, the ranks of the undefeated and untied will take a weekly slashing until a definite state champion can be established.

An important chapter in the 1944 grid book will be written in the Saugus-Chelsea and Melrose-Newton tangles. All four have passed early season tests to take over important roles in their drives to title recognition. At least a pair of the above quartet will fall off the wagon and from all appearances when the dust settles, Chelsea and Melrose will be sticking to the straight and narrow path while bursting the bubbles of the Sachems and the Orange and Black.

Chelsea tipped its hand in blasting Somerville two weeks ago while turning in a minor surprise. Coach Henry McCarthy's Red Devils played inspired ball, but not over their heads as they had proved previously against Lynn English and later against Revere. The line is very fast and hard charging while the backfield has popped up with a new star—or stars—in each game.

Johnnie Glowacki, at quarterback, has been hailed as one of the top backs of the season; Angie "Shadow" DeNofrio has been living up to his pre-season promise of being an ace back; Joe Finnegan has been more than taking care of his full-back duties and Sebbie "Buster" Saladin has alternately been named as one of the first stars to be seen this season.

But—Saugus will be very tough. Coach Dave Lucey has done a nifty job in spite of the fact that he's been forced to get along without two boys he'd counted on as regulars. His 190-pound fullback, Bob Kane, will be replaced for the greater part of this game by Cliff "Cushy" Harris, 145 pounds soaking wet.

Still, the Sachems have dumped Watertown and Beverly.

Tomorrow afternoon all attention will be focused on Dickinson Stadium, where Newton plans to slam the door on Coach Dave Gavins' Melrose record of 22 straight victories.

Yanks Set for Giants

Football at its best moves back into Fenway Park on Sunday afternoon when the Boston Yanks tackle the spectacular New York Giants in a National Football League thriller. With the Yanks' offense now hitting its top pace, and the Giants ready for the toughest kind of competition, a sparkling afternoon's grid engagement is due.

The Giants bring the great Bill Paschal, leading pro league ball carrier last year, as their chief running threat. This efforts may be matched by the ball carrying of fleet Teddy Williams, ex-Boston College ace.

Williams scored the only Yank touchdown against the Philly Eagles in the Yanks' night debut at Fenway recently, and showed all his oldtime ability on that run. However, Ted and his Yankee teammates now are in far better physical condition than they were in the Eagles game.

The Yanks have Coach Herb Kopf's bewildering spread formation, with George Cafego playing deep down to near perfection. With a big league attack ready and Williams, Cafego, placekicker Augie Leo and the other Yanks' offensive weapons sharpened to razor edge, there's good reason to expect the Giants will find themselves in for a gruelling session.

While there is every indication that the game itself at Fenway Sunday will be an offensive thriller, which will need no further embellishments, extra features have been planned.

Between halves, a kicking contest will be inaugurated to determine the outstanding school-boy booter in this area. Under the direction of Joe McKenney, director of physical education and athletics of the Boston school system, the eight outstanding kickers in Boston High schools will compete Sunday. Next Sunday, between the halves of the Redskins' game, the eight best in the suburban area will kick it out.

Then, on November 19, when the Brooklyn Tigers play here, the three survivors from each elimination will fight it out in the final, and every body in top condition and ready to go.

is being offered by Ted Collins, owner of the Yanks.

This contest, which is certain to be colorful and interesting, will not be the only attraction in addition to the game. Sid Lowe and his band will be on hand to provide music from one o'clock until two, and then from two until game time the famous Port of Embarkation Band from the Coast Guard and selected high school bands will take over.

Which means that there will be something doing from the time the gates open until the final whistle. But while this added program will certainly lend color to the occasion, the game is still the biggest attraction. Coach Herb Kopf has been priming the Yanks for the Giants for almost two weeks, and he not only has his charges ready offensively and defensively but he has every body in top condition and ready to go.

Dartmouth Fairly Good for Penn Test

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 6.—Following last Saturday's opener against Holy Cross which resulted in a 6 to 6 tie, words came down from the viewing scribes at Hanover, N. H., that "from tackle to tackle the Big Green looked good."

Of course, that tackle-to-tackle includes only five men, and the rules call for 11 Dartmouth football players to be facing Pennsylvania at one time when the team lines up next Saturday. Much has been said and written about Coach Earl Brown's injury-riddled backfield and below-par ends, so the burden this week will fall on the tackle-to-tackle quintet.

These five men won't carry the ball on the offense, but they will help clear the way for whatever carriers are available and they also will play a most important part in stopping whatever Penn uses in the way of offense.

Let's take a look at these five men who may have to bear the burden for the Big Green throughout the season.

Three of the five—Wil Washburn, Art Young, and Bob Harvey—are three of the four players on the Dartmouth squad who had any experience with the Green last year along the line. The other, Bill Bennett, was expected to play a major role as a tackle, but injuries have sidelined him for the season.

Washburn and Young will be the heavy duty tackles from here in, and they are products of New England famous prey school rivals, Washburn from Exeter and Harvey from Andover.

Little World Series Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP)—Baseball's little World Series—top feature of minor league play—will open at Louisville's Parkway Field tonight at 8 o'clock CWT.

Louisville of the American Ass'n. and Baltimore of the International League, will clash in the first struggle of the four-of-seven game series after battling to victory in the playoffs of their respective circuits.

The Baltimore Orioles, piloted by Manager Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas, were scheduled to arrive here today after entraining at Baltimore last night.

Harry Leibold, manager of the Louisville Colonels, has designated hurler Jim Wilson, winner of 19 games, for the mound berth in the opener but Thomas said he would wait until shortly before game time before deciding whether to start pitchers Sam Lowry or Ambrose (Bob) Feltz.

The Series will be continued here Saturday night and Sunday. Then the squads will journey to Baltimore for the remainder of the necessary games.

COACH INJURED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (AP)—University of Pennsylvania's latest football casualty is Coach George Munger—he aggravated a back injury while playing touch football with his 7-year-old son.

Kramer vs. Wilks in 3d Game

STORY ON PAGE 40

Forced Play

This Series action took place in the fifth inning of the second game. Brownie Gene Moore (starting slide) has been forced at second . . . and Emil Verban is tossing to first, too late to get Myron Hayworth.

Stan's Out

Stan Musial, Cardinal outfielder, goes out at first base after hitting a grounder to Don Gutteridge, Browns' second baseman, in the first inning of the second game. George McQuinn takes the throw.

Balked

Brownie George McQuinn, after doubling in the 11th, is tagged out at third by George Kurowski on an attempted sacrifice by Mark Christman, nipping a Brown scoring threat.

Run In

Emil Verban was scoring the Cards' first run in second game when this action was snapped. Augie Bergamo (17) is being thrown out at first as Lanier (21) goes to second.
